

Deep freeze

How are you enjoying the snowy weather? Where I live we've been quite lucky, we've only had minimal snow although we have had some sub zero temperatures: enough to get us to move our freezer out of the garage into the conservatory: last winter it stopped working because the ambient temperature was too low: despite it theoretically being a freezer designed to cope with temperatures as low as -15°C ! We couldn't figure out why our ice cream was melting!!

I must admit when it's this cold, I feel a bit like the freezer...
